Admiral's Paper Says That We Lack in Naval Strategy

Washington, April 13.-Secretary Dan els' refusal to permit Rear Admiral Fiske to read a paper before the Navy league convention here yesterday stirred up a wave of denunciation of the secre tary in the meeting and drew hisses from one part of the ball. County Agents Increase Farm Efficiency.

"The farmers' union of Nebraska," says Farm and Fireside, "has passed resolutions bearing in an interesting manner on the new and important farming factor of the county agent. They welcome the county demonstration agent sent by the government, saying, 'We need the assistance of his scientific knowledge. The resolutions go on to say that the county agent should be a man who has made good on a farm after finishing college by applying his scientific knowledge 'before going out as a teacher of agriculture or farm adviser." "This latter qualification is desirable, but not too much stress may be laid on The sole qualification for a farm adviser is that he be a good farm adviser. There is more opportunity for a man to acquire knowledge of this business in passing from farm to farm and studying their problems in close association with farmers than in working out the problems of any one farm. many of the county agents are of the kid-glove order. Most of them grow much faster in skill in their peculiar business after they enter it than they could possibly do on a farm. The ques-tions to ask are, 'Is he a good county agent? Does he know enough to help us solve our peculiar problems?' If these questions can all be answered 'Yes,' it is not wise to quibble on his manner of getting the knowledge."
